REFERENCE
degruyter.com/onlinereference
This Online Reference Work makes the most well-known, comprehensive, and reliable texts on German literature available for the first time online: The Dictionary of German Literature and its supplemental series, Dictionary of German Literature: The 20th Century and the Dictionary of German Literature: The Middle Ages. Spanning an extended time scale from the early Middle Ages to the recent present, this Online Reference Work is unique for its comprehensive scope, featuring articles on German-language authors from Germany, Switzerland, Austria, and other European countries. In addition to profiling the lives and works of literary figures, the Online Reference also contains extensive reference information on research publications. The volumes on the Middle Ages cover German-language literature from the 8th to the 15th centuries, and are systematically organized by genre and topic area.

The Online Reference Work, which contains some 70,000 articles, can be searched according to various criteria. With its focus on contemporary literature, this tool is an ideal complement to De Gruyter’s Database of Authors, which is primarily focused on the Middle Ages and the early modern period.

Initially, the database contains 77 volumes. Two volumes will be added each year until the final volume of the series is published. Additionally, there will be approx. 5 supplementary volumes (one volume to be published and uploaded each year from 2018-2022).

The Online Reference Work will be updated and expanded on a continuous basis with bibliographic information from De Gruyter’s Germanistik Online Database.
